Reportable Conduct Scheme

Background

The Royal Commission into Institutional Responses to Child Sexual Abuse (the Royal Commission) highlighted the numerous times and ways in which children reported abuse and were not believed, or no action was taken. The Royal Commission recommended that States and Territories establish Reportable Conduct Schemes to prevent harm to children by holding organisations accountable for the conduct of their staff.

Western Australia's Reportable Conduct Scheme (Scheme) commenced on 1 January 2023, following amendments to the Parliamentary Commissioner Act 1971 (Act). The Scheme expanded significantly on 1 January 2024 to include additional agencies, as well as additional types of reportable conduct.

What is the Reportable Conduct Scheme?

The Scheme compels heads of organisations that exercise care, supervision or authority over children to notify allegations of, or convictions for, child abuse by their employees to the Ombudsman and then investigate these allegations. The Ombudsman will monitor, oversee and review these investigations.

Expansion of the Scheme

The jurisdiction of the Scheme expanded on 1 January 2024 to include additional organisations as well as new types of reportable conduct.

From 1 January 2024, the Scheme included the following additional organisations:

- Accommodation and residential services;
- · Religious institutions; and
- Disability services.

At full operation the Scheme now requires over 4,000 organisations across Western Australia to report to the Ombudsman.

The additional types of conduct added from 1 January 2024 are as follows:

- Significant neglect of a child; and
- Any behaviour that causes significant emotional or psychological harm to a child.

The role of the Ombudsman under the Reportable Conduct Scheme

The role of the Ombudsman under the Scheme is comprised of the following functions, set out in section 19M(1) of the Act:
